June Edition 2006

This ministry update finds the West family enjoying the first weeks of summer vacation. (except for Guy, of course) We are glad that the last rush of school is over because it is very hard physically, mentally, and emotionally to finish the school year well.

We enjoyed seeing several of our friend's kids graduate and Chris was excited to watch the first of the students she has worked with receive their diplomas. It is rewarding to see students who had to work hard to stay in school walk up and receive their hard earned diplomas.

We also pause once again to say thank you to our many supporters. Ministry is a marathon effort. We have been missionaries for seven years and through each year you have been faithful and generous to provide for the Lord's work. Believe it or not... it's only 12 months until we return once again, this time for a one year home assignment. Let the planning begin! We are excited to think of renewing our friendship with you.

Guy's Ministry Update

I am continuing to divide my time between a number of important long term projects. Over the last quarter my involvement with the WIND-FM project in Mongolia has taken up almost half of my work time. With work from the Philippines and a trip to Mongolia it has been exhausting at times. The fatigue factor is offset by the joy in working along with deeply committed believers on projects that will expand the reach of the Gospel to more languages and cultures.

In the Philippines my focus has been to finish the planning and budgets for the Technical Services Group for the next fiscal year which begins on July 1. We have plans to help our regional stations improve their reach and quality of delivery of our programs. That will be an important part of what I will do over the next 12 months.

While you are reading this, I will be hard at work trying to get our Project 1143 architectural design process under way. I need to have the lead architect and two specialty design engineers up to speed with what we want to do in our Cagayan Valley Regional AM Station so that they can complete the first draft of all of the plans. While they are working on the plans I will return to Mongolia for most of July.

Pray for my stamina and for good judgement about what things I work on and what things I set aside in this busy time.

WIND FM - Mongolia

Project Workers, WIND Staff and Guy

The photo above is taken on the 5th anniversary of WIND-FM in Ulaanbaatar, Mongolia. It includes the station staff, the Finnish short term missionaries who worked on the building project in April and May along with Guy.

Guy spent a month in Mongolia assisting the project staff and Wind FM's station manager to plan and organize the remaining work on their new studio building. Besides assisting in the planning, Guy also reviewed the progress of
